First campus-wide health fair set for April 3 at Ely

Learn how to cook vegetarian style, find out how fit you really are by having your fat measured, pick up a few tips on self defense or watch a Jazzercise demonstration with friends on April 3 at the Ely Center. For the first time ever a campus-wide health fair will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. which features demonstrations, lectures and information booths on subjects related to health and wellness.

Sponsored by the Student Health Service in cooperation with Student Affairs, "Health Fair '84" will have activities all day throughout Ely Center.

The Lions Club will offer free tests for hearing, glaucoma and vision. Howard University will also be on campus for sickle cell testing. Representatives from Capitol Hill Hospital's sports medicine department will demonstrate the proper application of heat and ice to injuries. There will also be first aid and CPR demonstrations. In the afternoon, the Jazzercise instructor from Capitol Hill will show how to combine fun and fitness.

Other groups represented at the fair will include Deaf Pride, the American Physical Therapy Association, Preterm, Planned Parenthood and the American Physical Fitness Company. In addition, representatives from the Washington Women's Self Help Association and the Washington Area Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse will lecture and give demonstrations.

The Student Health Service will be closed April 3 except for emergencies. For further information and specific times of demonstrations, contact Judy Coryell at x5522 (voice or TDD).

GCRC holds annual awards program

The Gallaudet Community Relations Council held its fifth annual Awards and Recognition Program on St. Patrick's Day in the Model Secondary School Auditorium. Approximately 275 people from the campus and the surrounding community gathered to celebrate the theme of the evening, "Working Together, Growing Together and Loving It."

Paul Berry of WJLA-TV, Channel 7, was Master of Ceremonies for the evening. The award-winning, 5'6" newsman grabbed the audience's attention right away with his accusations of specific individuals in the auditorium: "I heard what you said. Yes, you sitting right there in the red dress. You said, 'He's short.'" Berry delighted his audience by joking about height all evening.

Berry received a surprise award from the GCRC during the evening. His consumer-oriented program, "Seven on your Side" (SOS) was cited as a service to the community. "Thanks for getting even for us, Paul," the plaque read in part.

Another of the GCRC Individual Achievement Awards went to Gallaudet Interim President Jerry C. Lee, who was praised for his people-oriented leadership style, "understanding of the vital link between the College and the community" and "personal commitment" to the neighborhood.

Community Outreach Awards from the GCRC went to the Near Northeast Meals on Wheels and the National Association of the Deaf. The Calvary Episcopal Church received the Outreach Ministry Award. Additional Individual Achievement Awards were presented to Ernest Hairston, student GCRC member Duane Halliburton and community GCRC members Gheretein Wilson and Annie Phillips.

Many area businesses contributed toward the awards program, and 14 community organizations presented their own community service awards.

Members of Deaf Dimensions perform during the awards program. Also providing entertainment were tenor James Morgan and actor and mime Bernard Bragg.

Activities set for April 7 observance of Charter Day

An art exhibit, auction, banquet and awards presentation are among the highlights of this year's Charter Day celebration, set for April 7. This year's celebration marks the 120th anniversary of the signing of Gallaudet's Charter which enabled the institution to grant college degrees.

Sponsored by the Gallaudet College Alumni Association and various campus departments, Charter Day activities will be held throughout the day.

The GCAA Exhibition of Arts, Crafts and Photography will open to the public April 3 and run through April 7 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Ely Center Art Gallery. Deaf artists and members of the campus community are invited to enter their works. The deadline for submissions is March 30. For more information, contact Sharon Staehle or Mary Anne Pugin at x5105 (TDD) or x5277 (voice).

A seminar entitled "On Death and Dying" will be held from 9 to 11 a.m. in LN 11 of the Learning Center. Richard Meisegeier, a Sociology professor at Gallaudet, will give that seminar.

A Library and Bookstore Fair will be held on the third floor balcony of the Learning Center from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. The library is seeking book donations for the book sale. All donated books should be left with Steven Frank in ME 11 of the Learning Center.

Lunch on Charter Day will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at the Ely Center Snack Bar. ARA Food Services will prepare a limited number of box lunches which will be sold for $3.50 by members of the Washington, D.C. Chapter of GCAA.

Congenital rubella focus of symposium

Researchers and scientists from all over the world met at the Pan American Health Organization for the International Symposium on the Prevention of Congenital Rubella Infection March 13-15. Major presentations, including research on the link between rubella and diabetes being conducted on campus, centered on the 15 years of experience with rubella vaccine, immunization programs in different countries and the impact of congenital rubella syndrome on the population.

Congenital rubella was first recognized in 1941 by an Australian eye doctor who was examining small children with cataracts and glaucoma. Mothers in his examining room realized they all had experienced some of the mild rash and other nondescript symptoms of rubella during their pregnancies. When rubella infects a pregnant woman, there are high risks to the unborn developing infant.

The rubella virus was isolated in the laboratory in 1960. Knowledge of congenital rubella syndrome grew after the world-wide epidemic in 1964-65. In 1969 a vaccine for rubella was licensed and immunization programs began in Australia, the United States, Great Britain and other industrialized countries.

During the symposium's first day's session on definition of the problem, Dr. E. Ross Stuckless of the National

If, after you've finished your income tax, you decide you should handle your money differently in 1984, you might profit from the "Money Management Information Source Book" (Ref. 332.016 R4m 1983) by Alan M. Rees and Jodith Janes. It discusses the good and bad points of the many popular books, magazines, newspapers, investment newsletters and pamphlets on money management that flood the market. This book is perhaps the first of its kind to focus on literature relating to consumer concerns about personal money management. Materials included are judged by the authors to be useful to consumers who yearn to make intelligent decisions about spending and saving, coping with inflation, credit, budgeting, banking, investments, taxes, insurance, real estate, estate planning, retirement and financial planning in general. The price of just one of the recommended items might make a big difference to you when income tax time rolls around again.

Or, maybe what you really need is a personal computer to help you manage your affairs—financial, academic or whatever. If so, the "Bowker/Bantam 1984 Complete Sourcebook of Personal Computing" (Ref. 001.64 B6 1983) might assist you in making some choices.

Written in an understandable fashion, this book emphasizes the relationship among all facets of computing—equipment, services, manufacturers and related books and magazines. It discusses whether or not a computer is right for you and provides checklists for buying hardware and software. Consistent information is given for each product listed, together with prices and the names and addresses of companies and organizations active in the field. Software is arranged by subject, so that if you're interested in computer-aided instruction, data management, finance and planning for professionals, games and recreation, household management, investment analysis, personal growth and development, etc., you can find listings, with short evaluations of each package.

However, maybe what you really need is a break from the whole thing. In that case, "Teach Overseas: The Educator's World-Wide Handbook in Overseas Schools, Colleges and Universities," 1984-85 edition (Ref. 371.1 W4t 1984), may point you in the right direction. Basic factual information gives a quick overall view of each country and a simplified history traces its development. For each, there is a list of government and professional organizations to contact for assistance in securing teaching positions and the addresses of schools, colleges and universities.

"Encyclopedia of Educational Research," fifth edition, (Ref. 370.7 E5 1982), is an important book. It reflects recent events and developments in American society to which educators must attend and discusses policy implications of the research reviewed.

It has been 13 years since the previous edition. Students needing a thorough reference in the field, education professionals requiring information on topics about which they are not currently active, scholars and thoughtful inquirers who are not professional educators can all profit from these signed articles, which vary in length.

The National Theatre of the Deaf will give one performance of its Olympic-bound production, "The Hero With a Thousand Faces" at Elstad Auditorium. The production, scheduled for March 28 at 8 p.m., is an original adaptation from the book by Joseph Campbell, written and directed by Larry Arrick. Tickets are $5 and reservations can be made by calling x5605 (voice) or x5608 (TDD). Box office hours are March 26-27 from noon to 5 p.m. and March 28 from noon to 8 p.m.

Campus police stake-out nets thieves

Following reports of several cars being broken into and vandalized in the Field House parking lot, the Department of Safety and Security last November instituted a special stake-out operation designed to catch the person or persons responsible.

While the stake-out was under way, campus police officers apprehended an off-campus individual who was seen trying to break into the rear of Elstad Auditorium. Several days later, the stake-out netted an individual sought by the Washington, D.C. police.

In January, campus police arrested an off-campus individual after he was seen breaking into a car parked at the Field House. In a related incident, another off-campus individual was arrested in Bethesda, MD, after the Department of Safety and Security and the Montgomery County Police Department set up a fake fencing operation. The suspect was attempting to sell items stolen from a vehicle while it was parked on campus.

Since those arrests, police say there have been no other automobile break-ins at the Field House parking lot.

Police remind members of the campus community to take the following measures to reduce the chance of their vehicles becoming a target of theft:

- Lock all vehicle doors;

- Remove items of value from plain view inside the vehicle and lock them in the trunk;

- Never back into a parking space since that provides cover for thieves to operate;

- Be alert for suspicious persons in parking lots and report any such activity to campus police.

Happy Hour to resume

Happy Hour at "Ole Jim," discontinued since the semester break in December, will resume on Thursdays and Fridays beginning Thursday, March 29.

To celebrate the re-opening of Happy Hour, hors d'oeuvres will be served March 29 and 30, with snacks provided as well.

Happy Hour each Thursday and Friday is 4 to 7 p.m. Prices are as follows: $1 for wine; $1.25 for beer; and $1.50 for mixed drinks.

Field-Initiated Research

Applications are being invited for new Field-Initiated Research Projects for fiscal year 1984, the National Institute for Handicapped Research (NIHR) announced this week. Applications are due May 21.

NIHR expects to fund approximately 40 grants with an average amount of $75,000 under this program, assuming a sufficient number of eligible applications and continued availability of funds.

Awards are made under this program to state and public or private agencies and organizations including institutions of higher education. The Field-Initiated Research Program is a new program designed to encourage eligible parties to originate valuable ideas for research projects to further the purposes specified in the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 as amended by Public Law 95-602.

The aim of the awards is for planning and conducting research, demonstrations and related activities. These activities have a direct bearing on the development of methods, procedures and devices to assist in the provision of vocational and other rehabilitation services to handicapped individuals, especially those with the most severe handicaps.

Application forms and further information may be obtained by contacting Ms. Gail Perry, National Institute of Handicapped Research, U.S. Department of Education, 330 C Street, SW, Switzer Building, Room 3070, Washington, DC 20202. The phone numbers 732-1138 (voice) and 732-1198 (TDD).

Technical Institute for the Deaf in Rochester, NY, delivered a paper on "Impact of Congenital Rubella Infection on the Educational System." Following that session researchers from nine countries spoke on the impact surveys done in their own countries.

At the final session, the group discussed immunization strategies for different populations. "The most expensive policy with congenital rubella syndrome is to do nothing about it," stated Dr. Margaret Gundnadottir of Iceland. In the United States, the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, GA manages the immunization program and is funded by the federal government. It has received a slight increase in this area for its FY85 budget.

DRCC schedules open meeting and election for April 12

The Deafness Related Concerns Council will hold an open meeting for all deaf Gallaudet employees Thursday, April 12 at 4:30 p.m. in "Ole Jim" during Happy Hour. An election will also be held at that time for a new College representative to the DRCC to replace Mike Kaika whose first two-year term has expired. Kaika, who is eligible for re-election, said he will run again. Dwight Benedict, coordinator of Residence Education, has also submitted his name as a DRCC candidate in the election. Other nominations will be accepted from the floor at the meeting.

Both Pre-College and the Northwest campus will hold elections in their respective areas to select a DRCC member. Deaf employees in those areas will be informed of the election through their representatives—Janet Weinstock and Susan Searls, Pre-College, and Hilary Ainbender, Northwest campus.

On March 12, the DRCC sent a letter to Raymond Trybus, dean of the Gallaudet Research Institute (GRI) concerning the new directions the GRI is taking in deafness research as mentioned in the Spring 1982 and Fall 1983 issues of the GRI Newsletter.

Although the DRCC strongly supports research on the medical and/or clinical aspects of deafness (i.e. prevention of hearing loss, restoration of hearing and accommodation to hearing loss), it would like to see research which will contribute to a better understanding of deaf people as persons in terms of American Sign Language and the culture of deaf persons. DRCC's letter said in part "... we believe a corresponding amount of research must be conducted in areas such as the anthropological, cultural, emotional, humanistic, linguistic, psychological and sociological aspects of deafness."

DRCC's response to the GRI is a result of a meeting among deaf college employees last November where concerns were raised about research conducted at this College. The DRCC will share other concerns during the April 12 open meeting.

Children's show to be performed

For the tenth consecutive year, Gallaudet's Theatre Arts Department will produce a children's show. This year's production will be Victoria Brown Clayman's adaptation of "Beauty and the Beast," which retells the ageless fairytale of a beast who would never be lovable until he was truly loved. All performances will be given in American Sign Language with narration.

Performances will be given April 12 and 13 at 7:30 p.m. and April 14 at 2 and 7:30 p.m.

Gallaudet students with identification will be admitted free of charge. Ticket prices are $2 for children and students (including sign language students) and $3 for all others. Reservations can be made by calling x5605 (voice) and x5608 (TDD).

Box office hours are April 2-6 from 2 to 5 p.m.; April 9-11 from 2 to 5 p.m.; April 12-13 from 2 to 7:30 p.m.; and April 14 from noon to 7:30 p.m.

Tickets can be ordered by sending a check payable to Gallaudet College Theatre, Box 2303. Please include a stamped, self-addressed return envelope.

Dr. Edward C. Merrill Jr. and his wife, Frances, dined with Gallaudet friends at "Ole Jim" when the Merrills were on campus recently.

EPOC to co-sponsor supervisors' workshop

Experiential Programs Off Campus (EPOC) and the National Center on Employment of the Deaf will co-sponsor "Strategies: Supervising Your Hearing Impaired Student" Tuesday, April 10 from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in the red and yellow rooms of the Student Cafeteria.

The workshop is offered for off-campus and new and prospective co-op educational and internship supervisors. Participants must register by April 6. Contact the EPOC office at x5548 (voice and TDD) for more information.

New recreational activities offered early next month

Meditation and stress management are two topics to be dealt with during lunchtime recreational activities offered to Gallaudet employees through the Office of Intramurals and Campus Recreation. The activities will begin early next month and are aimed primarily at stress reduction and/or diversion.

Each activity will be offered from noon to 1 p.m., free of charge. Registration is not necessary; employees should just come to the first meeting.

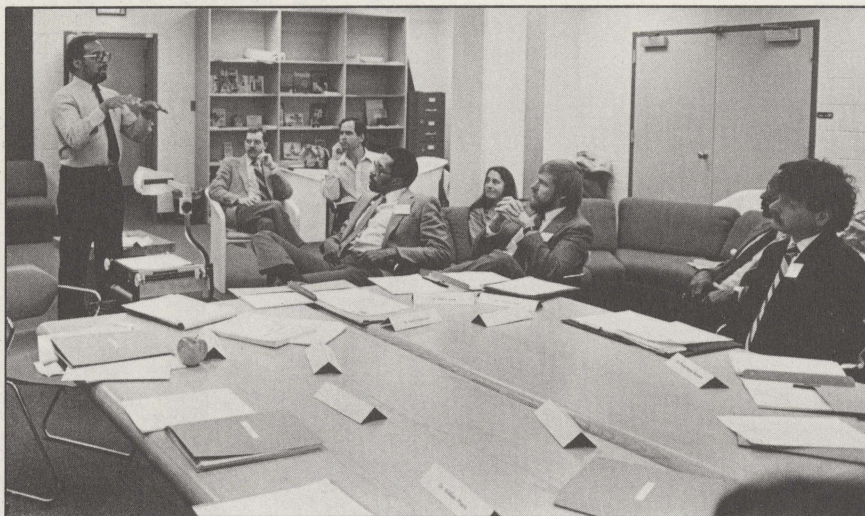

"Learn to Meditate" is a three-week basic class for beginners. It will be held April 6, 13 and 20 in Room 113 of the Field House. Jim Fernandes is the instructor and can be reached at x5360 (voice and TDD).

"Women's Health Discussion Group" will discuss topics such as Pre-Menstrual Syndrome, birth control, sexuality, etc. depending on group preference. Paula Ottinger will lead the group, which will meet for four consecutive Fridays beginning April 6 at the Hall of Fame in the Field House. Ottinger can be reached at x5635 (voice and TDD).

"Stress Management Discussion Group" will discuss state of the art information, self-assessment tools and individual concerns. The group will meet Wednesdays, April 4, 11, 18 and 25 in the Hall of Fame at the Field House. E. Ron Dreher will lead the group and can be reached at x5682 (voice and TDD).

"Current Events Discussion Group," will focus on issues such as the presidential election, Central America, USA-USSR relations, nuclear policy and the prayer amendment. Russell Olson will lead the group, which will meet Mondays, April 2, 9, 16 and 23 at the Hall of Fame at the Field House. Olson's phone number is x5338.

"Art as a Hobby" will serve as a get-together for persons who dabble in arts and crafts for recreation. Participants are asked to bring their own art supplies to class. Meeting in Room 218 of the Washburn Arts Building, the class will be held Tuesdays, April 3, 10, 17 and 24. Gina Oliva will lead the class and can be reached at x5682 (voice and TDD).

The National Advisory Board from KDES and the National Advisory Committee from MSSD met recently at KDES. The three-day annual meeting the first week in March marked the first time both groups met jointly.

April 7 marks Charter Day observance

The auction is scheduled from 2 to 4:30 p.m. at Chapel Hall. Eric Malzkahn, a 1943 graduate of Gallaudet, and Don Pettingill, a 1976 graduate of Gallaudet, will serve as auctioneers. Items to be auctioned include desks, chairs, tables, trunks and various antiques. All auction items are cash and carry and can be viewed in the chapel area from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The Charter Day Social Hour and Banquet will be held at "Ole Jim" from 5 to 9 p.m. Jane Bassett Spilman, chairman of Gallaudet's Board of Trustees, will speak at the banquet.

Four Laurent Clerc Cultural Fund Awards will be presented during the banquet. The Laurent Clerc Award, presented to a deaf person for his or her outstanding social contributions, will be given to Jess Smith, assistant superintendent of the Indiana School for the Deaf.

The Alice Cogswell Award for valuable service on behalf of deaf people will be presented to Howard Quigley, former executive director of the Convention of American Instructors of the Deaf, Conference of Executives of American Schools for the Deaf and Captioned Films of the Deaf.

Jerald Jordan, a 1948 graduate of Gallaudet and director of Admissions and Records for the College, will be presented the Edward Miner Gallaudet Award. That award is given to international or national leaders—deaf or hearing—working to promote the well-being of deaf people.

Jean Cordano, a 1951 graduate of Gallaudet, will receive the Amos Kendall Award, which is presented to a deaf person for excellence in a professional field unrelated to deafness. Cordano works as a supervisor of a laboratory in a hospital near Delavan, WI.

Dinner theatre installs listening system

A listening system designed to help hearing impaired persons is now being used at an area dinner theatre. The Brook Farm Inn of Magic, a magic/comedy dinner theatre in Chevy Chase, MD, installed the Sound Plus listening system March 1 and plans to use it on a trial basis for 45 days.

The device helps hearing impaired persons to hear the performance via an infrared emitter. Installed near the stage, the emitter sends its rays of infrared light throughout the theatre. The rays, similar to FM radio waves, are free from interference.

The headphone that enables persons to pick up the sound emissions weighs less than three ounces, is cordless and has individual controls. There is no additional charge for patrons requesting a headphone, which can be picked up upon arrival at the theatre. Because of a limited number, early reservations are recommended.

The Brook Farm Inn of Magic offers magic shows Wednesday through Sunday evenings, with two shows on Saturday. The theatre is located at 7101 Brookville Road. For reservations, call 652-8820.

General campus announcements

- The Gallaudet College campus raised more than $5,000 for the American Heart Association during the Jump Rope for Heart fund-raiser. The three-hour jump rope marathon netted $5,147 plus donations.

- Alpha Sigma Pi Fraternity will hold its annual carnival April 7 in the parking lot at KDES. The carnival will begin at 6 p.m. and end at 2 a.m.

- The Student Body Government is sponsoring a Sign-A-Story contest, open to Gallaudet students and employees. The story-telling contest will be held April 12, 19 and 26 from 7 to 10 p.m. at the Ely Center auditorium.

For more information, contact the Student Body Government at x5719.

- Dr. Hilde Schlesinger will speak on "Psychological Reactions to Hearing Loss" March 28 at 4:30 p.m. in the MSSD auditorium.

The presentation is part of Gallaudet Research Institute's seminar series, "Hearing Loss in Adulthood" and is open to the campus community.

- The Student Health Service will sponsor a lecture on medical testing Tuesday, March 27, from 7 to 8 p.m. in the MSSD Orientation Room. The lecture is entitled "Medical Testing: Tests You Can't Study For!" and will give descriptions and explanations of medical tests.

Funds sought for education project

The School of Education and Human Services (SEHS) has submitted a proposal to the U.S. Department of Education seeking funds under the Women's Educational Equity Act Program for a study and development of training materials related to "Attaining Equity and Excellence in Post-Secondary Classroom Interaction of Deaf Students."

In its proposal submitted Feb. 27, SEHS requested $145,475 over a two-year period for the project. Initiated by the dean's office, the project will be directed by Barbara Bodner-Johnson and Marilyn Sass-Lehrer of the Department of Education. The project proposes to develop, implement, evaluate and disseminate a faculty development model program and materials to assure sex equity and excellence in post-secondary classroom interaction for deaf students.
